We want a good live correspondent in every community where we have none at present. There is general rejoicing in Columbia that Hon. Josh Ashley is a member of this session of the Legislature. Speaking to a State reporter, he said: "They tried to beat me but I got that all the same. Tillman was again me that but I am here." The Hon. Josh is level-headed and if there were more like him shorter sessions would be the rule.—Aiken Journal and Review.

The Darlington Messenger, of the 10th inst., in speaking of a former popular young citizen of Belton, says: "E. R. Cox is having the corner store next to the post office put in good order and will soon move into it. Mr. Cox is too well and favorably known in this his adopted home to need any words of introduction from this reporter. Every one in Darlington wishes him all the success which he so richly deserves in this new venture."

Last Sunday afternoon, while Miss Carrie Bell, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mrs. L. C. Cooley, was out horseback riding the animal became frightened at some object, jumped quickly to one side, throwing the rider violently to the ground and breaking her left arm in two places. Dr. Wilson was summoned and soon the young patient was resting comfortably, and it is only a question of a few days when Miss Cooley will resume her studies at school.—Williamston News.

Last Monday afternoon an unfortunate affray occurred on the plantation of A. T. Newell, about seven miles north of this city, which resulted in W. S. Newell shooting and instantly killing Wm. Hall, a negro employed on the place. Mr. Newell came to the city at once and gave himself up to Sheriff Green. Coroner Banister held an inquest yesterday and the verdict of the jury was justifiable homicide. The negro was a mean, dangerous character, and was in the act of attacking Mr. Newell with a knife when the fatal shot was fired. Three white men and a negro convict witnessed the affray. A motion for bail for Newell will be argued before Judge Pope in Columbia this afternoon.

Mrs. Annie McConnell, wife of J. Milton McConnell, died at her home, three miles north of this city, last Sunday morning about 8 o'clock. She had been in feeble health for several months, but her condition was not considered serious until the day preceding her death, and the announcement of her death was, therefore, a great shock to many of her friends and relatives. Mrs. McConnell was the eldest daughter of Barr Bailey, and was 51 years of age. She was a good woman, highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends, and had long been a devoted member of Concord A. R. P. Church. A devoted husband and four children survive her. The remains were interred at Midway Church yesterday, Nov. J. L. McLin conducting the funeral services.

"My Daughter-in-Law" is the name of the play that will be presented in the Opera House to-morrow evening. The Florence Times, of the 8th inst., in speaking of it, says: "The presentation of the bright society play, 'My Daughter-in-Law,' at the Auditorium last night by Miss Marion Converse and the excellent company supporting her was splendid in every way and seems to have met with general favor. The audience had been led to expect a great deal of the play, especially of the leading lady, Miss Converse and they were not disappointed. The performance deserved a much larger house. Without an exception the company is a strong one. There was real acting last night in every line of the play. The characters understood their work, and not even a movement on their part was unnatural." Tickets and reserved seats are now on sale at the Evans Pharmacy.

A most deserving couple found their way to the altar of Midway Presbyterian Church, four miles north of this city, on Wednesday afternoon, 9th inst., at 12:30 o'clock, to join hands and hearts together, and in plighting their vows to ask God's blessing on their union and to receive the sanction of the church amidst a multitude of friends, who had gathered to witness the beautiful ceremony and to extend their congratulations to the newly joined pair. The couple was Dr. M. Augustus Thompson and Miss Minnie Anderson, both of this County, and they were married by Rev. J. L. McLin. The interior of the church was tastefully decorated with evergreens. The first to enter the church were Master Louis Anderson and little Miss Minnie Smith, who opened the flower gates. They were followed by the ushers, Messrs. DeWitt Anderson, Willie Glenn, George Evans and Frank Pearson. Then came the maids of honor, Misses Andrey Davis, of Greenville, and Bessie Glenn, of this County, both brides of the bride, followed by the bride and groom, who were met at the altar by the officiating minister, whose solemn and sacred words soon blended the two happy lives in one. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. R. H. Anderson, one of Anderson County's most excellent citizens, and is a young lady possessed of many worthy qualities and attainments. The groom is one of Anderson County's most successful physicians, and is highly esteemed by all who know him for his many noble characteristics. The happy couple enter upon life's pilgrimage with the best wishes of their legion of friends.

A. Beatty Sherard died at the home of his father, D. J. Sherard, at Moffattville, last Saturday morning, in the 25th year of his age. He had been in feeble health since last spring, suffering with tuberculosis, but was not confined to his bed until a few weeks ago. In his boyhood Mr. Sherard attended the school at Moffattville and from there he went to Erskine College. Later he entered the South Carolina College and took up the study of law, which he continued until he passed a most creditable examination and was admitted to the bar in Columbia, where he located to practice his profession. He was a member of the staff of the Columbia State for awhile, and wielded a fluent pen. He was so attached to his profession that he gave up his position and devoted his whole time to the practice of law, and had a bright and successful future before him. He was a young man of fine ability, studious habits and exemplary character. In speaking of his death the Columbia State says: "A. Beatty Sherard was a South Carolina gentleman of the first water. Nothing better could be said of the young man. Everyone who came in contact with him found him a true and noble-minded man and his untimely death will be most generally lamented. Few men who enter professional life possess the uprightness and integrity that characterized this young man's career." The announcement of his death brought sorrow to the hearts of a wide circle of friends and relatives who deeply sympathize with the devoted parents, brothers and sisters who are left to cherish his memory. The remains were interred at Generestee Church, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. R. C. Ligon.

It is to be hoped that a recurrence of such wild scenes as are reported to have been enacted on our streets last Thursday will not be seen again in Anderson soon. According to our informant, a run was precipitated on the stock of Dean's Patent Flour at Dean & Ratcliffe's, reducing their supply to an insignificant reserve. Such an unprecedented demand created a panic among their customers in which 750 lives were lost and several thousand others were mortally disappointed, while 10,000 people went home happy and contented in the possession of a liberal allowance of Dean's Patent Flour. Dean & Ratcliffe in their new advertisement this week, corroborate the above and promise to keep a full supply in future. They have also a very pointed notice to debtors which may be of value to those who owe them.

A Former Anderson Boy's Description of an Orange Grove.

OAKLAND, FLA., Jan. 10.
Mr. Editor: I would like to tell the readers of the INTELLIGENCER about an orange grove here.
The grove is on an island on south side of Lake Apopka. The lake is a large one, 12x15 miles. This grove is known as the Island grove, and was first planted by Indians, and most of the fruit was sour but it has been budded and is now all sweet. The grove contains about 800 trees and they are irregular, not in rows at all and real thick on the ground. It is not so good now as it was before the 1895 freeze, but it is a sight now. The grove has changed owners several times, and at one time was worth about $60,000. One season's crop would amount to 5,510 boxes. It is a grand sight to see the grove full of the golden fruit. There were about 400 boxes on the grove this winter and next year it will have 2,000 boxes.
This country is fast coming back to what it was six years ago. Oakland is a beautiful little town situated between two large lakes, and has two railroads, and ships thousands of crates of vegetables every year.
This island grove is not all there are here, for all around Lake Apopka there are thousands of acres of fine groves, and some of them are at present loaded with the golden fruit. W. T. H.
